(Catharine Desmond)

DISTRESSING AND FATAL ACCIDENT.--We are called upon to record another deplorable accident resulting from a criminally careless use of fire-arms. On Sunday night, Daniel McArthur was sitting in the same room, in No. 314 Seventh street, with Catharine Desmond, a young lady to whom he was engaged. Catharine was sitting at a small stand, reading a book, and her lover was teasing her, and trying to transfer her attention from the book to himself, by extinguishing the candle. Finally, all of his efforts having failed, he took a double-barreled shotgun which stood in the corner, put on a cap and pulled the trigger, intending to blow out the candle with the air forced out of the gun by its explosion of the cap. Unfortunately the gun was loaded, and the horror stricken man heard a loud report, and saw his betrothed sink to the floor, bleeding and dying. A full charge of shot entered her right breast, and in spite of the efforts of the physicians who were called, she died yesterday morning, about two o'clock. The unhappy young man is of course almost distracted. He surrendered himself, and was yesterday morning examined in the Police Court. The testimony showing no criminal intention, he was discharged. The dead and the living were to have been married in about two months.--Cincinnati Gazette of Tuesday.

WOMAN WITH BROOKLYN CONNECTIONS DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID IN THE WAITING ROOM

A woman about 30 years old, who was later identified as Catherine Desmond, a domestic, committed suicide shortly before 8 o'clock this morning by drinking carbolic acid in the waiting room of the Grand Central Railroad station, on Forty-second street. She had been in the women's waiting room of the station but a few moments when she drained the contents of a small whisky [sic] glass and then toppled over on one of the seats in the room.

Several women at once went to the assistance of the woman, and Policeman Sohey of the Grand Central sub-station was called. He had the woman removed to the sub-station and summoned an ambulance from Flower Hospital. Dr. Forbes worked an hour over the woman but she died without regaining consciousness.

In the suicide's possession were two letters addressed to friends and these friends were notified.

Edmund Leigh, a patrolman, formerly of the Eldridge street station, Manhattan, went to the coroner's office and was handed one of the sealed letters which the dead woman had left. Leigh lives with his wife, who was a sister of the suicide, at 531 Eleventh street, this borough. As Leigh read the letter tears streamed down his face. He refused to divulge the contents, saying that it was merely a letter of farewell. He said the woman had been sick and out of work for a long time, and that was the only reason there could be for suicide.

THE HOMICIDE OF DANIEL DESMOND

THE TRIAL OF MATTHEW STAPLETON FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Court of Sessions--Judge Moore, and Justices Johnson and Stillwell

On the night of the Fourth of July last a boy named Daniel Desmond was walking along State street with two or three companions, and when near Boerum street, while in conversation, they came near two young men, one of whom was standing up and the other was in the act of relieving himself. In reply to a question put to Desmond by one of his friends, one of these strangers, as testified, made a filthy remark, upon which Desmond said, "What the h-ll are you saying?" Thereupon the stranger, who was standing up, advanced upon Desmond and struck him a blow, which knocked Desmond down. Desmond was taken home, and the next day he died. It did not appear that Desmond had been struck with anything more than a man's fist.

This morning Matthew Stapleton, one of the drivers for Dodd's express, was placed on trial charged with having struck the blow that killed Desmond. On that night Stapleton was roaming about the streets with a young companion named McIntire. The main evidence to identify Stapleton as the man who struck the blow was the evidence of a boy about fifteen years of age, named John Murphy. He positively identified him this morning, but upon cross examination it was shown that before the Coroner, he had said that Michael Smith had done it, and then that Stapleton had done it. It was also shown by his own confession that, young as he was, he had been arrested ten times and had been in the penitentiary.

Case still on.

VETERAN FIREMAN DIES--STRICKEN ON WAY TO BANQUET.

Felix Desmond, seventy-four-year-old veteran fireman of San Francisco, and one of three veterans who benefited by the passage of amendment 41 at the recent elections, raising their pensions from $45 to $75 a month, died at San Francisco Hospital Sunday morning.

Desmond was on his way to the Veteran Fireman's banquet Saturday night to join his friends and sing two old songs for which he was famous, "Sally in Our Alley" and "Our Engine That Was Housed on the Hill." He never reached the banquet, for he was stricken with paralysis and fell on the street. It was his second stroke.

Two young men picked him up and took him home. He was later moved to the St. Francis hospital.

Desmond retired from the service more than twenty years ago, but was recalled to duty in 1906. The best of his life was passed in the service of San Francisco. He retired before the raise in pensions was sanctioned, and with his other two friends, Henry Robinet, 70, and Ed O'Sullivan was receiving only $45 a month until the people of San Francisco showed their appreciation of past services by the passage of amendment 41.

A BRAKEMAN KILLED

FRANK DESMOND CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER THE WHEELS AT LIMON, COL., LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

Frank Desmond, a Rock Island brakeman on the Denver run, was run over and killed in the yards at Limon about 9:30 o'clock last Friday night.

Desmond was but 22 years old and had only been engaged in the train service ten days. He left his home at Denver Friday morning, being assigned to a freight train in charge of Conductor W. J. Converse, and had made the run to Limon and were switching in the yards making up another train to take back to Denver, when Desmond attempted to step on the brake-beam of an approaching box car, missed his footing and was crushed under the wheels so that he died an hour later. Both legs and arms were run over and his body rolled along some distance before the other trainmen knew of the accident that had befallen their fellow employee. A special train was made up to carry the injured man to Denver but he died on the way.

Frank F. Desmond, the young man's father, is an engineer on the Denver & Rio Grande. The funeral was held from the residence of his parents in Denver Monday.

JAMES DESMOND IS DEAD AT 59; POLITICAL WRITER FOR DAILY NEWS
COLUMNIST WROTE BIOGRAPHY OF ROCKEFELLER--SERIES ON TAXES WON AWARD

James Desmond, a political writer for The Daily News, died of cancer yesterday in Mount Sinai Hospital. He was 59 years old. Formerly a resident of Bedford Hills, N. Y., he had lived at the Tudor Hotel since the death of his wife two years ago.

Governor Rockefeller, the subject of a biography by Mr. Desmond that was published in 1964, issued the following statement on his death: "The loss is a heavy one to all of us in and out of government who knew him. His insight, his integrity and his ability made him one of our nation's most respected journalists. Mrs. Rockefeller and myself treasured his friendship. We both express our deepest sympathy to his family."

The tall, slender, convivial Mr. Desmond was a specialist in state political affairs. His column of analysis and comment, "Albany Line," appeared regularly in The Sunday News.

Since 1944 he had covered every national political convention and except for his illness would have been accompanying Governor Rockefeller on the campaign trail.

In 1952 he and Joseph Martin received a George Polk Memorial Award for a series in The News that led to the payment by the Treasury of $10-million in unclaimed refunds to taxpayers.

"Nelson Rockefeller: A Political Biography," was praised in The New York Times as "a friendly and understanding work that clearly reflects Mr. Desmond's wide understanding of professional politics, how nominations are won and lost and how Rockefeller won one and lost another."

Mr. Desmond was born in Brooklyn on Aug. 24, 1908, and grew up in Yonkers, where he joined The Yonkers Statesman in 1930. He later worked for The Associated Press, The New York World Telegram and PM. He joined The News during World War II.

Surviving are a son, Michael of New York; a daughter, Mrs. Sheila D. Schultz of Oroville, Calif.; a brother, John W. Desmond, assistant Sunday editor of The Times; a sister, Mrs. Walter Fitzpatrick of Las Vegas, Nev., and 10 grandchildren-

FIX LOCATION OF TRAIN TRAGEDY

Railway detectives of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in their investigation of the death of James Desmond, 22, of 2208 West Third street, who was killed early yesterday morning on the railroad tracks near Welsh street, have obtained information which they believe will definitely establish the fact that the tragedy took place at Welsh street, when a coroner's hearing of the case is heard.

When the accident was first reported, despite the opinion of railway officials, there was support for the theory that Desmond may have been struck by a train while crossing the tracks near his home and near the Lamokin street station and that the body was carried to Welsh street where it was found between the northbound tracks.

Detective Blankenburg, of the railroad, learned from William Smith, a frequenter of the vicinity of Sixth and Welsh streets, that young Desmond had been seen on the southbound platform a short time before the body was recovered on the tracks. He said that he had watched him for some time.

Funeral services for the victim of the accident, James H. Desmond, will be held on Saturday morning from his home 2308 West Third street. High requiem mass will be observed at Immaculate Heart Church and interment will be in Immaculate Heart Cemetery.

Jeremiah Desmond died Friday morning also, aged eighty-four years. He has been in feeble health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He, like Mr. Donivan, was an upright, honest man, respected by all. He leaves a wife, who is very ill and not expected to recover, three sons and two daughters. He was a brother of Mrs. John Holland and Mrs. C. Daley, of Brashton, Mrs. Daniel Dineen of Potsdam, and Mrs. Daniel Hurly, of this place.

Both of these old gentlemen were a credit to their families and to the community at large. Their funerals were held on Sunday at the Catholic Church at the same hour. The caskets were placed side by side in front of the altar. A requiem high mass was celebrated and an excellent sermon preached by Father Nyhan. This was a very solemn occasion and all present felt it so. The church was filled and many had to remain outside. It is 22 years since a double funeral was held at this church.

HIS PEACEFUL END

JEREMIAH DESMOND WAS ONE OF JEFFERSONVILLE'S OLDEST CITIZENS

Jerry Desmond as his friends used to call him who for more than fifty years had been one of the most familiar figures in Jeffersonville died at his home 121 Clark street in that city Friday morning after an illness of a few days. For some time he had been growing feeble on account of his advanced age, eighty-eight years. Finally his entire system gave down and senility caused his death.

A man of sterling honesty and of unquestioned veracity, Mr Desmond enjoyed the respect of all who knew him and during his long life in Jeffersonville, it is not believed a word of disrespect was uttered against him.

Jeremiah Desmond was born in Ireland on March 3 1819 and came to America when a young man. Nearly sixty years ago he settled in Jeffersonville and made that city his home for the remainder of his days.

He is survived by a widow who is well advanced in years and three sons, John Desmond, Daniel Desmond, and James Desmond, all of whom are unmarried and live at home. The funeral services were conducted by Father O'Connell at St. Augustine's church Sunday afternoon and a long line of carriages followed the remains to the cemetery.

FOUND DEAD IN HER HOME

POLICE INVESTIGATE DEATH OF JOHANNA DESMOND, 80 YEARS, AND FIND IT WAS FROM NATURAL CAUSES

A sudden death, which at first appeared to have some mysterious features, occurred during the night at 1 Paige ct. and was investigated by the police of division 1 under the direction of Capt. Kimball.

Johanna Desmond, a single woman, 80 years old, who was an old resident of the North End district, and who had lived for a number of years at 1 Paige ct., was found dead on the floor near her bed this morning, her head resting in a quantity of blood which had come from the side of her throat.

The police were notified, and Capt. Kimball sent men to the house to make an investigation. In turn, they called on the health department, and a physician was sent to examine the body. The examination of the latter, and what the police learned, convinced them that the death had resulted from natural causes.

Miss Desmond had been an invalid for some months, and had been attended by Dr. Freedman of a North End dispensary. She also had a nurse who came in daytimes. When the nurse visited the room this morning, she found the old woman dead on the floor by the side of the bed. Miss Desmond probably died suddenly in the night, and in her death struggles fell out on the floor. She had a sore on her throat, which accounted for the blood under her head.

Dr. Freedman certified to the cause of death, and so the medical examiner was not notified and the police dropped the case.

PRESIDENT OF THE TOWNSEND, DESMOND & VOORHIS COMPANY A SUICIDE

John Desmond, president of the Townsend, Desmond & Voorhis Company of No. 475 Broadway, dealers in umbrellas, committed suicide yesterday in his room in the Tremont apartment house, at No. 263 Belleville avenue, Newark. The police say that Desmond was a heavy speculator in Wall Street, but as far as his friends knew he was never a heavy loser.

As far as the police have been able to learn, Desmond was about his apartment as usual yesterday morning. He ate breakfast with Mrs. I. M. Upperon, from whom he leased his apartment, and she noticed nothing peculiar in his manner or actions. He had been in his room only a short time when she heard the report of a pistol shot. Mrs. Upperon and a servant found Desmond lying on his face in a pool of blood on the floor by the side of his bed. Clutched in his right hand was a revolver. Before Dr. Dennie arrived Desmond died.

Desmond must have stood in front of the mirror when he placed the revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger. The bullet came out at the top of the head.

Desmond had placed a roll of bills amounting to $300 and a diamond ring on a table. He was a member of the New York Bar Association, was 40 years old and was unmarried.

(Joseph Lawrence Desmond)

DESMOND, Joseph Lawrence - Our loss is heaven's gain...On January 16, 2008, a truly wonderful man passed away from this world. Joe Desmond, devoted husband and father, lost his brief but courageous battle against cancer at home with his family at his side.

Joe was born in Boston on July 8, 1953 to Rita and Joe Desmond. The youngest of four and the only boy, Joe proved to be full of life from day one. He often loved to recount his childhood antics from growing up in Boston to his days of Catholic boys boarding school at Cardinal Cushing Academy, where he was sent to "straighten him out." Those who know Joe best know that this was never to happen.

Being his own man, Joe moved from Boston to San Francisco in the early 1970's. In San Francisco Joe combined his love of music and his uncanny sales ability, landing a job at the very first Guitar Center on Van Ness Avenue. This is where Joe started a long and successful career in the music and pro audio industry. Joe worked at both Guitar Center and K&K Music until the opportunity of a lifetime happened.

In 1986, Joe became the National/International sales manager for Furman Sound Inc. Here's where Joe's passion for audio and sales savvy transformed Furman into a leader in the professional audio industry. This also allowed Joe to make his mark world-wide. He remained at Furman Sound for 18 years, until 2004 when he struck out on his own, forming Joe Desmond & Associates with Pam Desmond, his wife and devoted partner of 26 years.

Joe's love of life and wicked sense of humor were infectious...a merry prankster with a crooked smile who brought laughter and unconditional love to every interaction. Joe was a true human being and will be sorely missed by his devoted wife, Pam, his adored daughter Jillian and his beloved son, Ben. Also missing their master are Joe's faithful retriever Sandy and little yellow lab Sunny.

Joe treasured his family above all and is survived by his mother, Rita Desmond of Boston, Mass, his sisters Mona Breed of Sausalito, CA, Kitty Desmond of Mill Valley, CA, his mother-in-law Eve Petersen of San Francisco, CA and numerous nieces and nephews and friends, most notably Joe's niece Amie Breed and best friend John Root who unselfishly nursed him through his final days.

The family is grateful to Kaiser Hospital of Santa Rosa and Dr. Harrison Wright, who showed Joe and his family love and compassion along with the caring staff of St. Joseph's Hospice also in Santa Rosa.

A memorial service will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 150 St. Joseph's Way in Cotati, California on Friday, February 8th at 11:00 a.m. Joe's final words of good-bye to all of his family and friends was "It is what it is and I will see you on the flip side!"

MURDER CHARGE

DRUNKEN ORGY IN HUT

An inquiry into the death of Michael Desmond, aged 50, which occurred following a drunken orgy in a hut at National Park on April 26, was opened by the City Coroner (Mr E. A. May) on Friday. Thomas Jenkins, who has been arrested on a charge of murder was present at the proceedings.

Sergeant McNeill said that he found Desmond lying dead on a bed in the hut. There was a bottle which had contained methylated [sic] spirits on the floor, while on a stretcher was an intoxicated woman.

Outside the hut witness found another woman who was drunk. On the Thursday prior to his death Desmond had been locked up for riotous behaviour. He was a violent man when under the influence of drink.

Detective Keeble said when he questioned Jenkins, the latter admitted having killed Desmond, but declared he had acted in self-defence. Jenkins, said witness, indicated a piece of wood with which Desmond had attacked him.

Sarah Smith said that after Desmond entered the hut methylated spirits was consumed, and later wine was drunk. Desmond and Jenkins later became involved in an argument and then she heard someone calling to her that Desmond was dead. The Coroner found that Desmond died from a wound in the throat and committed Jenkins for trial on a charge of murder.

MICHAEL DESMOND, 64, TEACHING WAS A 'CALLING'

BY WALT WILEY, BEE STAFF WRITER

Michael Desmond had wanted to be a lawyer like his father and two brothers, but life kept steering him to be a teacher, a vocation that turned out to be a true calling for him. "People come up to me all the time and ask if I'm related to the teacher, Michael Desmond," said his wife, Peggy, "Then they go on to tell me about the wonderful time they had in his class. Teaching really was a calling with him."

Mr. Desmond died at home Tuesday of a heart attack at age 64. Since 1998, when he suffered a stroke, he had been working part time training teachers at Christian Brothers High School, where he taught history for the last 11 years of his 30-year classroom career, his wife said. Earlier, he had taught at Jonas Salk Middle School and Bishop Manogue High School. "He had an absolute passion for history, any history. He traced his family's history way back. He liked to tell of one great-great-grandmother who came on the boat from Ireland" and made her way to Marysville, "then walked to Grass Valley," she said. "He gave me a lesson on the history of the Portuguese National Church the day he died."

Equal with his love of history, Mr. Desmond was a gregarious man who loved corny jokes, his wife said. "He was very people oriented, and he used humor to connect with his students," she said. "And he was also a die-hard fan of Christian Brothers athletics, as well as a man of deep faith, involved in all the Catholic activities."

Mr. Desmond was born May 1, 1937, to Edna Nicolaus and Earl D. Desmond, both descendants of Gold Rush pioneers. She was the daughter of Louis Nicolaus, a founder of Sacramento's old Buffalo Brewery at 21st and Q streets.

Mr. Desmond graduated from Christian Brothers in 1956, then attended seminary in Oregon before graduating from Seattle University. Later, he was awarded his teaching credential at Gonzaga University and a master's at the University of San Francisco.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by daughters Kerry Desmond of Kansas City, Mo., Katie Desmond of Flagstaff, Ariz., and Colleen Desmond of Washington, D.C.; a son, David Desmond of Pasadena; and brothers Richard and Louis and sisters Mary Mastalski, Denise Franzoia and Clare Lagomarsino, all of Sacramento.

Visitation will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday at W.F. Gormley & Sons Chapel, 2015 Capitol Ave. A rosary will be said at 7 p.m. Monday at St. Philomene Church, 2428 Bell St., where a Mass of Christian burial will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

NEW YORK, December 30--Mrs. Mollie Desmond, who attempted to commit suicide eighteen months ago by swallowing a package of 144 needles, died today after physicians had made twenty-five surgical operations upon her and had removed all but a dozen of the needles. Domestic troubles induced Mrs. Desmond to try this extraordinary method of suicide in June 1906, when she swallowed a set of needles varying in size from a darning to the smallest used in fine sewing. She had been an inmate of the hospital ever since and the physicians have made search for the needles as they moved about in her body, threatening the vital organs. In all 32 of them were removed and the doctors were beginning to believe there were none remaining, when a pain in the region of the heart warned them there was still danger.

(Terrence Desmond)

THE MURDER OF TERRANCE DESMOND.

On the 24:th of June, 1880, coroner Nichols received a telegram from A. A. Cady, sent from Chatfield, stating that the dead body of Terrance Desmond, a farmer and former resident of the town of Elmira, had been found in a grove on his farm, in a condition showing that the man had been murdered. Deputy-coroner Benjamin left immediately for the place designated, and took prompt measures toward holding an inquest over the remains of the deceased.

A coroner's jury was duly summoned and several witnesses were examined, when the following-named facts were elicited: Mr. Desmond was seen alive for the last time on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 23, about four o'clock. There were various conjectures respecting his sudden and mysterious disappearance, and a search for him was instituted. His scythe, which he had been using to cut weeds, was found hanging in a tree. Search was made in the immediate vicinity, but not finding the missing man, some of the party went to a field of sugar-cane where the deceased had also been at work on the afternoon of his disappearance. The body was found about twenty rods west of the cane field, and close by the remains there was a spot in the grass and weeds where it was evident that some person had been recently sitting down. Deceased was lying on the face, with his right hand under him and his hat directly in front of him at a spot just where he had evidently come out of the thick brush into the path. The blood from his wounds had run down the hill and his clothing was saturated with blood from head to feet. His throat had been cut from ear to ear. The gash was fully seven inches in length and severed the jugular vein and the windpipe. There was another cut just below the one first mentioned, and there were also two stabs over the left ear and one behind the ear. The skull was mashed in directly above the ear. About two rods from the body a heavy seasoned oak club, some five or six feet in length, upon which were bloody spots and hair, was found.

Mrs. Ellen Desmond, wife of the murdered man, testified that her late husband was last seen at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when he came down to the house from the field to look after some colts. She stated that her husband was in a hurry, saying that he must return to the field at once to finish some work before it was time to attend to the chores. Mrs. Desmond also said that there had been hard feelings between her husband and Edwin Reynolds, a brother-in-law and neighbor of the deceased, but she did not think the enmity so great as to provoke murder. The jury returned a verdict that Mr. Desmond came to his death by a blow from a club upon the head and by his throat being cut by some person to them unknown.

Charles Van Allen, a boy eighteen years of age, and who was at work for Mr. Desmond at the time of the murder, was arrested on suspicion of having committed the bloody deed, brought to Rochester by sheriff White and lodged in jail.

On the 27th of July Van Allen had an examination, conducted by county-attorney Eckholdt, before Justice Laird, at Chatfield, on the charge of murder. The hearing commenced at one o'clock in the afternoon and lasted until three o'clock the following morning. Over thirty witnesses were examined, but the evidence not being deemed sufficient to warrant the court in holding the accused, he was discharged.

Edwin Reynolds, before spoken of, and who was present at the examination of Van Allen, was immediately arrested by sheriff White on a warrant issued by Justice Laird and made returnable before Justice S. W. Eaton at Rochester. Reynolds was brought before Justice Eaton on Thursday, the 28th, when an adjournment was had till nine o'clock the next morning. C. Kingley, Esq., of Chatfield, and R. A.

Jones, Esq., of Rochester, appeared for the defense; the state was represented by county-attorney Eckholdt. The examination lasted two days, twenty-five witnesses having been examined. The testimony in the case on the part of the state was that Reynolds and deceased had for some time past been at great enmity with one another; that a few weeks previously the two had had a fight; that Reynolds had bitten Desmond's face pretty badly in the fight, though the former got soundly whipped at last; that Reynolds subsequently prosecuted deceased for an assault, lost his case and had to pay the costs of suit, amounting to about $20. Several of the witnesses testified that Reynolds was of an ugly, quarrelsome nature, and that he had frequently been heard to say that he would "make away with Desmond before long." The examination resulted in the accused being held to await the action of the grand jury at the following December term of the district court.

The court convened on December 6, Hon. William Mitchell presiding. The grand jury found an indictment against Reynolds for the willful murder of Terrance Desmond. On being arraigned and required to plead to the indictment, Reynolds plead not guilty. On Wednesday, the second week of the session, the case of the State V. Reynolds was called, county-attorney Eckholdt being assisted by attorney-general Start, on the part of the state. After some delay a jury was impaneled and the trial proceeded.

The case was given to the jury Thursday afternoon, and after being out about twenty hours, they returned into court and informed the judge that they were unable to agree upon a verdict. It was understood that the final vote stood eleven for acquittal and one for conviction. Judge Mitchell required Reynolds to give bail in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance at the next term of court, but in default of bail he was kept in jail until March 18, 1881, when he was released on his own recognizance, and on August 6 following, Judge Start, successor of Judge Mitchell on the bench, ordered the action dismissed. --History of Winona and Olmstead Counties [Minnesota] (Chicago: H. OBITUARY

TIMOTHY DESMOND

Timothy Desmond, a well known resident of Brooklyn, and a Democratic politician of prominence, died on Saturday at his home, No. 417 Clermont avenue. The immediate cause of death was an affection of the liver. Mr. Desmond had been ailing for some time, but was able to be about as usual up to within a few weeks of his death. Deceased was 50 years of age and a native of Troy, N.Y., but had lived in Brooklyn for a quarter of a century or more. He always took a deep interest in local politics, and was for years a member of the regular Democratic organization. He left it temporarily to join the Jeffersonian Committee, an independent Democratic organization which had a brief and inglorious existence here some years ago. Mr. Desmond did not seem to take that interest in it that he evinced in the affairs of the regular organization, to which he promptly returned upon the dissolution of the Jeffersonians. He had considerable ambition in the direction of office, and sought nominations for several offices, but without success. One of the causes of his failure was his inability to conciliate the rival party leaders in his ward, the Twentieth. Mr. Desmond always took an active part in the affairs of the regular committee as long as he was a member, and while he did not always agree with the more prominent men of the party here, credit was given to him for the belief that he was acting according to his sense of what was right and proper. He was very strong in his likes and dislikes, and never hesitated to express his opinions when he felt called upon to do so. In campaign times he did good services for the party, both by work outside and inside, at public meetings and in the business of the committee. He was a faithful friend, and the announcement of his death was received with deep regret by a large circle of acquaintances.

Mr. Desmond was formerly in the business of butcher, and in 1870 retired from it a comparatively rich man. He subsequently engaged in the coal business, which he continued up to the time of his death. This last venture did not prove successful, and he found his property gradually slipping away from him.

Deceased was married, and left several children. One of his daughters is the wife of Supervisor Murphy of the Ninth Ward. The funeral services will be held at the Cathedral Chapel, Clermont avenue to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

DAWSON, Ga., September 30--Coroner W. J. Lewis went to Herod this morning, accompanied by Sheriff Christie, to hold an inquest. Will Desmond, a negro, was found this morning on one side of a public road with two pistol bullets in his back. The jury rendered a verdict charging Lonnie Crawford, another negro, with murder. The row started at a frolic a mile from the scene of the killing about 10 cents, but was seemingly settled through the interference of the host, and in a short while Crawford and Desmond started home, accompanied by another negro. Nearing the forks of a road where Crawford was to separate from Desmond and his companion, Crawford renewed the quarrel by asking Desmond if he did not try to pick a fuss with him at the frolic. Desmond replied, "No, I did not. If I hurt your feelings, I will apologize."

Crawford accepted the apology, but when the men were about to part Crawford, without saying a word, stepped back and, drawing his pistol, fired five times at Desmond.

Coroner Lewis came to town and swore out a warrant charging Crawford with murder, but Crawford has not yet been apprehended.
